

Five Injured by Bullets in Attempt on Roosevelt

CHICAGO MAYOR SLIGHTLY IMPROVED, BUT MRS. JOS. GILL, OTHER SERIOUS VICTIM, TAKES TURN FOR THE WORSE; THE PRESIDENT-ELECT REMAINS UNHARMED THROUGHOUT FUSILLADE

Would-Be Assassin, Unemployed Brick Mason, Severely Pummelled Before Secret Service Men Rescue Him—"I Kill Every President," He Cries—Think Man Probably Unbalanced, Mentally

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—(INS)—At 6.15 a. m., the Supervisor of Jackson Memorial Hospital reported that Mayor Anton J. Cermak was resting "well" and apparently was slightly improved.

Mrs. Joseph Gill, the other serious victim of the mad attempt on President-elect Roosevelt's life, at the same hour took a turn for the worse. Her condition already was critical.

The Chicago mayor was shot in the back, the bullet lodging between the kidney and the liver and surgeons were contemplating an operation later in the day.

Mrs. Gill, wounded in the abdomen, underwent an emergency operation which failed to recover the bullet, and her condition was considered grave.

Sinott, a brother-in-law of former Mayor James F. Hylan of New York, was wounded over the left eye and his condition too was described as serious.

Miss Kruike suffered a bullet wound in the hand and Caldwell was wounded in the head.

The would-be assassin was severely pummelled before secret service agents rescued him from the crowd. "I kill every President," he said as he was hustled away. "I kill 'em all; I kill all officers."

TELLS OF SEEING ATTEMPT ON ROOSEVELT'S LIFE

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—(INS)—The following eye-witness account of Giuseppe Zanagara's attempt on President-elect Roosevelt's life last night, which resulted in five casualties, was obtained from Roy Dohs, of Johnson City, N. Y., who was sitting directly behind the gunman.

"Immediately after Mr. Roosevelt stopped speaking, I saw the assassin raise a gun from his right hip and fire over the heads of the people in front of him.

"He fired two shots when a large man to the right grabbed his arm and lifted it up and he fired the third shot in the direction of the stand.

"He then struggled and stepped up on the chair where he continued firing.

"I attempted to grab him from behind and in the general melee that followed I saw a woman tackle him from the left as the chair crumpled.

"A policeman then rushed in and grabbed both Zanagara and myself. And I was down on the bottom for too long a time to know what else happened."

Mrs. W. F. Cross Tells Of Saving Roosevelt

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—(INS)—Mrs. W. F. Cross, of Miami, was the heroine of last night's attempt on President-elect Roosevelt's life.

She was the brave lady who pushed the gun in Giuseppe Zanagara's hand out of position so that it failed to pour a deadly barrage into Mr. Roosevelt.

She was standing next to the wild-eyed Italian.

"I couldn't see when Mr. Roosevelt started to speak," she said, "because so many people in front of me stood up. I climbed up on one of the benches, too.

"This man (Zanagara) stood up with me. The bench almost collapsed. 'I looked at him and saw he had a pistol in his hand. He began shooting at the President-elect.

"I grabbed his hand and pushed it up in the air. Then I called for help. The man next to me, grabbed his hand and between us we held it there for he couldn't shoot any more.

"In a minute more, all of those around us were trying to choke him. He went down under a pile of men."

TESTED COWS IN COUNTY NOW NUMBER 26,000

Wrightstown and Solebury Townships Were First To Have It Done

NEW BRITAIN THE LAST

During the past five years, according to County Agent William F. Greenawald, 26,000 head of cattle in Bucks county have been tested for bovine tuberculosis and at present 80 per cent are either tested on the area or have been signed up and are awaiting the tests.

To date eleven of the 21 townships of the county have had their cattle tested. The testing first took place in Wrightstown and Solebury townships in 1927.

Other townships in which the cattle were tested for bovine tuberculosis included Buckingham, Durham, Springfield, Nockamixon, Haycock, Bedminster and New Britain.

Farmers in Richland township have signed up for the tests which are expected to begin in the near future and efforts are being made to interest the farmers in Middletown township along the line of having their cattle tested.

The tests were recently completed in Bedminster township and those in New Britain township were finished a few days ago by Dr. Adolf Berg, Doylestown, and Dr. Wesley Massing, Chalfont. This township had 52 reactors on 21 premises.

County Agent Greenawald stated yesterday that the Penna. Bureau of Animal Industry plans to have all the cattle in the State under its supervision by 1935. To date 43 of the 67 counties of the State are modified accredited areas.

At one time, said Mr. Greenawald, there was some difficulty experienced in procuring the consent of the farmers of having their cattle tested, but at present very few farmers object to it. Mr. Greenawald expects that during the coming year some more townships in the county will adopt the area plan.

President-Elect's Wife To Continue Addresses

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(INS)—Shaken by news of the attempted assassination of her husband at Miami but carrying on with her speaking schedule with true spartan fortitude, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was en route this morning to Ithaca, N. Y., where she was to speak at Cornell University this afternoon.

By a curious coincidence, she was discussing her husband's responsibilities and worries at the very moment when the shots were fired in Florida. Responding to a jest by another speaker concerning Mr. Roosevelt's grave responsibilities, she had remarked:

"I am sure I am not the only one who does not carry my husband. We can only have courage and do the best one can, give as much of yourself as possible and then be cheerful about life."

Informed at 11 o'clock a few minutes later of the shooting, she drew a deep breath and sighed:

"Well, I suppose we have to expect things like that from now on."

Mrs. Roosevelt immediately put in a long distance telephone call to Miami for her husband, who was at the bedside of Anton Cermak, Chicago's wounded mayor. The President-elect, apparently perfectly calm, told her to make the trip to Ithaca as planned, and to reassure their relatives.

FIRST BABY CHICK SHOW IN COUNTY SCHEDULED

Poultrymen of Four Counties Will Be Privileged To Exhibit AT NAT'L. FARM SCHOOL

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 16.—Under direction of county agent, William F. Greenawald, a baby chick show will be conducted at National Farm School, in which poultrymen from four counties will have an opportunity to exhibit.

This will be the first baby chick show conducted in the county, and it is scheduled for March 7th, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Bucks, Montgomery, Lehigh and Northampton county poultrymen are expected to take advantage of the opportunity of showing their chicks.

The object of this show will be to create interest among poultrymen in quality chicks. There will be two divisions, a hatchery class and a breeders' class. In each of the two divisions there will be four sub-divisions. They will be as follows: Banded Plymouth Rocks, single comb Rhode Island Reds, single comb White Leghorns and miscellaneous.

The chicks will be judged by C. O. Dossin, poultry extension specialist from State College. Chicks will be scored on the following points: Size, 20; color, 20; vigor and health, 30, and condition, 30. Mr. Greenawald has announced that the chicks must be as near 24 hours of age as possible, but they may be older if not fed.

Prizes will consist of first, second and third ribbons in each sub-division and a trophy to be presented for the grand champion chicks. The exhibit will be followed at 3.30 by a public auction of the chicks.

In addition to the exhibit, there will be a program which will be featured by addresses on four subjects. They will be as follows: "What Constitutes a Good Chick," C. O. Dossin; "The influence of the good physical condition of Breeders," L. W. Steeleman, Center Point; "How the pedigreed breeder can help the small breeder," Paul Guldeen, Yellow House, Berks county; and "Breeding and Care of Chicks," M. M. West, Lansdale.

MUSICIANS WILL DON COLONIAL COSTUMES

Gamble Party to Present Numbers of Washington's Period

CONCERT, TWO PARTS

One portion of the program to be given by the Gamble Concert Party in Bristol Presbyterian Church this evening will include music of the period of Washington's first administration, and members of the party will be in costume, representing prominent individuals of that period.

The first group of numbers will be miscellaneous selections, with trios including voice and violin, as well as solo and duet numbers. The program of this evening will be entirely different from the one presented here by the Gamble party several weeks ago.

One of the splendid things about the Ernest Gamble Concert Party is that, whereas other musical companies have a life of from one to four years on the concert stage, this one is continually before the public.

The artists are not talented amateurs, but skilled professionals, each the product of great masters. The oldest member of the party is Ernest Gamble, who has presented thousands of concerts since the commencement of his career.

Verna Page, the delightful violinist, and Miss Marvel Biddle, are by no means to be called support. They share the program equally with Mr. Gamble. The combination of basso, soprano and violin is ideal.

The Ernest Gamble Concert Party has become an institution in the musical world. It has a high reputation, and stands for fine, legitimate and artistic ideals. It is known from coast to coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Becker, Bath street, had as guests Sunday and Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richardson and daughter, Thelma, Trenton.

Auto Strikes Culvert; Five From Phila. Hurt

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Feb. 16.—In an automobile accident on the Lincoln Highway, near here, last night, five residents of Philadelphia, were hurt. The injured included a couple who were returning from a honeymoon abroad.

The accident took place when the machine struck a culvert.

The injured: David Eisenberg, 47 years old, of 2608 North 31st street, lacerations of the face; his wife, Annie, 45 years old, cut about the face and head; Mr. and Mrs. John Siegel, Jr., 27 and 21 years old, respectively, cuts, bruises and shock. The former is also believed to have sustained a fractured rib. John Siegel, Sr., 54 years old, sustained a broken nose. All the victims were treated at the office of a Langhorne physician.

The younger Siegels, who are theatrical performers, spent their honeymoon in Germany. They arrived in this country yesterday and were met at the pier in New York by Siegel's father and the Eisenbergs.

Eisenberg was driving the car when he lost control of it. The vehicle struck a snow bank and then crashed into a culvert. The machine was wrecked and baggage scattered about the road.

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED FOR HULMEVILLE P.-T. A.

Association Buys Bowls and Spoons for Cafeteria; To Purchase Eye-Glasses

DISCUSS SCHOOL CODE

HULMEVILLE, Feb. 16.—Twenty people attended the February session of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association in the school house here last evening. Joseph Keen, who last month was re-elected president, presided, and the new corps of officers took up their duties.

A motion was passed to purchase eye-glasses for one pupil, and bill was passed for soup bowls and spoons recently purchased for the cafeteria.

It was announced that Wednesday, March 8th, will be designated as a special visiting day in the school here, with other such days to follow. Parents and friends are urged to take advantage of this plan and see the school in operation.

Committee members appointed by President Keen included: Program, Mrs. Hugh B. Webster and Richard Hopkins; hospitality, Mrs. W. H. Johnson and Mrs. Richard Hopkins; publicity, Miss Elma E. Haefer.

Members passed a motion that a letter of sympathy be forwarded to Mrs. E. Burd, upon the death of her husband. Mr. Burd was a former principal at the local school.

The proposed school code as outlined by three members of the state Senate, three from the House, and three men from the Department of Justice was gone over by Mr. Hopkins, who a short time ago attended meetings relative to school legislation in Harrisburg. The manner in which proposed changes will affect this district was told, and general discussion ensued.

Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee.

New Wallace Beery Hit Opens at Grand Theatre

"Flesh," with Wallace Beery as star, opens tonight at the Grand Theatre for two days.

Beery has a powerful role, comedy and pathos giving him plentiful opportunity to display his versatile talents, in this story of the wrestling ring.

It will be recalled that Beery scored the biggest hit of his career in another drama of the sport world, "The Champ." In recognition of the popularity of this type of role, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer selected "Flesh" as his new vehicle.

As Herr Polkai, Beery plays a wrestling waiter in a German beer garden, where he meets and marries Karen Morley, an American girl who has been abandoned by her dancing partner, Ricardo Cortez. He becomes wrestling champion of Germany, and then comes to the United States to seek the world's title. There he and the girl become entangled in the scheming of Miss Morley's former lover, who tries to make Polkai accept the dictation of a crooked wrestling ring.

The drama culminates with a wrestling match for the world title between Beery and Zbyszko.

SUNBURY.—Despite demands of a group of local taxpayers for drastic economy, Sunbury's city commission has fixed the 1933 tax rate at 18 mills, an increase of a half mill over last year's rate.

PROPRIETOR OF CAMPUS INN IS GIVEN SENTENCE

Peter J. Kuebler is Also to Serve Suspended Prison Term

FINED $300 AND COSTS

Says Friends Asked Him To Stock Up With Some Good Beer

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 16.—Peter J. Kuebler, 46, proprietor of the Campus Inn, on the Lincoln Highway, South Langhorne, yesterday pleaded guilty in court here, to a charge of possessing and selling high-powered beer in New Year's eve.

Upon examination of court records it was found that Kuebler was arrested about one year ago on a similar charge. At that time he was fined $300 and costs, but placed on probation for two years, with a prison sentence suspended.

Yesterday Kuebler was fined $300 and costs, and sentenced to serve not less than three months or more than two years in the county prison, and he was likewise directed to serve the suspended sentence, the two terms to run concurrently. This will make a minimum term of two years.

The Campus Inn was raided by state police from Morrisville barracks, together with inspectors of the Pennsylvania State Alcohol Permit Board. Walter Wilson, one of the inspectors, offered testimony to the effect that on December 29th last he went to the Campus Inn accompanied by a woman companion, where he purchased beer for 15 cents a glass. He stated that a waitress asked him if he wanted wine, beer or whiskey. Wilson also stated the beer was "good," being able to determine quality of such through his work with the board.

The raid occurred on December 31st, led by Corporal John Stewart of the Morrisville barracks. The officers stated they found four half barrels of beer, two on tap, and two unopened.

In his testimony Kuebler told the court he paid $15,000 for the place or business. He passed menus around in court in order that the judge and jury might see what items were included. Judge Boyer after glancing over the menu inquired of Kuebler as to what a "cannibal" sandwich was. "It's made of raw meat," Kuebler informed, after which the judge thanked him and mentioned that he was "an innocent judge."

Kuebler told that he purchased the beer for $35 a barrel in Trenton, also adding that he purchased beer at times in Philadelphia. He denied he was a distributor of beer in lower Bucks county. The Campus Inn proprietor informed the court he had stocked up for the holidays at the request of friends.

Scholars of Harriman M. E. Church Enjoy Social Time

A delightful social was held in Harriman M. E. Church last evening, the affair being given for the Junior and Intermediate members of the Sunday School.

Daring Bank Bandit Shot and Killed

Ambler, Feb. 16.—The leader of a daring gang of bank bandits who kidnapped the cashier of the First National Bank and held him captive until time clocks swung open the vault doors for them, was shot and killed in a battle with Philadelphia police today. His three companions and three women, found in an apartment hide-away in the Wissahickon section of Philadelphia, were captured. The loot, between $25,000 and $30,000 was recovered.

The vigilance of Philadelphia detective captain, Joseph Malone, a veteran criminal sleuth, and the alertness of a government post office clerk in giving police the license number of the bandit car, shattered the well-nigh perfect plans of the gunmen. Their slain leader was William Ferguson, 35, recently released from a jail in Baltimore, police said.

The gunmen were captured when police surrounded them in a Philadelphia rendezvous, an apartment house at 316 Salaigal street, Wissahickon. They elected to shoot it out. Ferguson was drilled through the head with a bullet. Samuel Mitchell, 38, Joseph McGee, 35, and Barney Wacht, 31, his companions surrendered. Police also took into custody, Mrs. Katherine Mitchell, Betty Berman and Alice Daley, whom they found in the house.

Samuel Horst, 45, cashier of the bank, and his wife, were surprised by the gunmen when they returned home at 11 o'clock last night. The four thugs, carrying pistols and stub machine guns, ordered them to throw up their hands. They were bound hand and foot and thrown into chairs. Their captors, with surprising complacency, brewed themselves a pot of coffee as they sat chatting with their victims, telling them of the plans for the robbery. At 3 o'clock in the morning, the bandits hand-cuffed Horst and put him in their automobile and went to the bank. The night watchman met them at the door. He was battered unconscious by the trio as Horst stood by, helpless. At 6.30 the time lock on the vault clicked and the three gunmen pushed open the doors, lifted out the sacks of currency and then emptied the night depository too.

Informed of the robbery, Philadelphia police immediately took up the chase. Captain Malone at once connected the car with Ferguson and his companions.

Since the release of the latter and McGee from the Baltimore jail Captain Malone and his men have been tracing their movements.

Mrs. Gill, wounded in the abdomen, underwent an emergency operation which failed to recover the bullet and her condition was considered grave.

Sinott, a brother-in-law of former Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, was wounded over the left eye and his condition was said to be serious.

DEBT RELIEF

Back of the many measures before national and state legislative bodies to ease the burden of the debtor, to liberalize the bankruptcy laws, to facilitate corporation reorganization so receiverships can be avoided and to refinance farm and home mortgages is the fact that the country is trying to pay interest on debts incurred at pre-depression prices.

The farmers owe $1,150,000,000 less than they owed in 1922 but those who purchased farms while farm values were inflated due to war prices have obligations based on $2 wheat and 25-cent-wheat incomes with which to meet them. Farm mortgages doubled between 1915 and 1920.

Home owners are under a mortgage of $25,000,000,000, placed upon them when real estate prices and wages were high. They struggled with the interest payments when wages were highest, and now that the average income hardly justifies a total mortgage indebtedness of half the present amount hundreds of thousands of mortgagors are in default. Corporations increased their indebtedness from $43,000,000,000 to $75,000,000,000 from 1922 to 1929 and of the few doing business in volume today still fewer are operating at a profit.

Obviously the situation is acute. It cannot take care of itself without virtually destroying all values and bringing chaos into the whole financial and business structure. So it is proposed to inflate the currency to boost prices and wages, to refinance loans at lower interest rates, to declare a moratorium on all debts, to lend borrowers money with which to pay their interest and so on. Every plan is experimental with results problematical.

THE TAX PYRAMID

The American Legislators' Association will have fully justified its existence if its first and last accomplishment in Washington on duplication of taxation. And if the conference succeeds in any degree, there will be glory enough for the association for all time.

When the legislators strike at duplication of taxation they strike at a national sore spot. Taxation is never more irritating than when two or more levies strike in the same place at the same time. And of late these irritants have been multiplying at an uneasy rate as municipal, state and federal governments scan the field for new revenue sources.

There is too much overlapping of levies. Both the federal and state governments levy gasoline taxes. Many states pile an income tax on top of the Federal income tax. Inheritance taxes are duplicated. There is a Federal tax on tobacco, which is taxed again in some states. There is a Federal tax on new automobiles, as many as three levies in some states and some municipalities cap the towering pyramid with a registration fee. Real estate pays taxes to city and county governments, school districts and in most states to the state government. The Federal tax on electricity is a duplication, as a Federal sales tax would be in many states.

The only reason some men are street car conductors is so they can tell people where to get off.

SYNOPSIS

In the year 1690, when piracy was rampant on the Spanish Main, Priscilla Harradine sailed from the West Indies bound for England aboard the "Centaur," who is accompanied by middle-aged Major Sands, the aide of her late father who had been Captain-General of the Leeward Isles. The Major aims to win Priscilla's hand and fortune. Monsieur Charles de Bernis, former lieutenant of the notorious buccancer, Henry Morgan, is aboard. The Major, feeling superior to the young Frenchman, is hostile toward De Bernis, but Priscilla is fascinated by the latter's charm and wit. Morgan now is Governor of Jamaica, and employed by his King to rid the sea of pirates. A few still elude him—among them the scoundrel Tom Leach, for whose capture Morgan has posted a reward. Major Sands upbraids De Bernis calling him a pirate, and adding that Morgan and his cut-throats were just bloodthirsty, thieving scoundrels. De Bernis nonchalantly accepts this tirade of abuse. Next morning, "The Black Swan," Tom Leach's ship, attacks the "Centaur." The latter is crippled and the pirate prepares to board her. De Bernis tells Priscilla to have courage and trust him.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Priscilla rose from her knees to question the Major.

In his heart Major Sands could not suppose that the Frenchman was anything but vaingloriously boastful. A theatrical fellow who would attitudinize in the very face of death. But he made gallant shift to stifle that conviction, so as to comfort her distress.

"I do not know what he can do, Stab me, I don't. But he seems confident. A resourceful fellow. I should judge. Remember, too, that he has been a buccancer, and knows their ways. Dog don't eat dog, they say."

Thus, vaguely, he mumbled on, though in his heart there was no hope. From what they had heard as lately as last night of the ways of Tom Leach, he could only assume that death would be his portion, and only pray that it might be a swift one. Fearful as the prospect might be, yet a deeper agony clawed him on behalf of Priscilla Harradine. Beholding her, so sweet and lovely in her distress, he feared for her the worse fate of being allowed to live, the prey of such a beast as Leach. It even crossed his agonized mind to kill her where she stood, considering this, in the past to which things were come, the highest and noblest proof he could give of his love and reverence. But the thought took no root in his will. Inert he remained standing by the locker on which she sat, conscious for once of his own utter futility, and offering her cheerless vague words of comfort.

Thus, until the sunlight was eclipsed for them by the bulk of the great black ship. She came, her bulwarks lined with men, gliding up astern on their larboard quarter, and so cast her chilling, sinister shadow athwart the stern-ports where Miss Priscilla sat. Across the short gap of water came a trumpet call from the pirate deck. They heard, too, the roll of drums, and presently there was a volley of musketry.

It brought Miss Priscilla quivering to her feet, and urged the Major to set a protecting arm about her slimmest.

And then from his cabin Monsieur de Bernis re-emerged at last, followed by his servant. He came now, not merely cleansed of his grime, but restored to his normal courtly habit. He had resumed his curled black periwig, his fine violet shirt, and his doublet of violet taffetas with its deep cuffs reversed in black and the buttonholes richly laced with silver. In addition, he was booted, in fine black Cordovan leather, and he had armed himself, not only with a long rapier, but with a pair of pistols, slung before him, after the fashion of the buccancers, in the ends of a stole, which, like his baldric, was of purple leather stiff with silver bullion. They stared at him in wonder. That he should have been at such pains with his toilet at such a time was surprising enough. But the ease of his bearing was more surprising still.

"Save me!" she gasped. "Save me!"

He smiled upon their wide-eyed wonder. He explained himself. "Captain Leach is a great man. The last of the great buccancers. He is to be received with ceremony."

He was moving forward towards them when the deck under their feet shuddered to a thudding, crash impact, followed by rending of timbers, the ringing clank of grap hooks, the snapping of spars, and the long, harsh rattle of volley upon volley of musketry.

Flung forward, Monsieur de Bernis clutched the table to steady himself. The Major dropped to his knees, whilst Miss Priscilla, hurrying across the cabin, found refuge in the Frenchman's arms.

"Save me!" she gasped. "Save me!"

Holding her, the man's tight lips under the little black moustache softened into a smile. One of his long shapely hands stroked the golden head that lay against his breast, and it may be that the firm, belm touch of him soothed her more than his actual words.

"I hope to do so. It may well be possible."

Deeply resentful of a situation which gave the Frenchman license for the intimacy of his attitude, the Major, gathering himself up, glared at him.

"Why, what can you do?" he growled ungraciously.

"We are going to see. Perhaps much. Perhaps little. But to do much, it is necessary that you obey me." His manner became stern. "Contradict nothing that I say, whatever it may be, and whatever you may think. Remember that, if you please, or you may destroy us all."

Overhead a thunder of feet went

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and rank and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

SPORTS

"JIM" SPENCER IS HIGH SCHOOL CENTER

(This is the second of a series of 10 articles to be written about the individual members of the Bristol high school basketball team.)

By Oscar Corn
(H. S. Press Agent)

The Bristol high school team will play Bordentown here tomorrow evening. For the local quintet one of the "Jim" Spencer, will play at center.

James Wilson Spencer was born in Bristol on October 19, 1915. Having lived in Bristol for seventeen years, "Jim" is known very well about town. He has successfully displayed his athletic ability with two of our local young men's athletic clubs, the Cub line, in baseball, and with the Furmens in football.

Spencer is a great lover of sports, and he hopes to become a physical director when he finishes school. He has been very successful in high school athletics also. In baseball he was a second string pitcher, while in football, playing fullback, he was a very fine line plunger and ground gainer for the Cardinal and Gray eleven.

On Saturday evening, February 18, "Jim" will be a member of the track team which Bristol High is sending to compete in the track meet held indoors at Convention Hall, Philadelphia.

In the eighth grade, he first went out for basketball, and made the Junior Varsity, as he did in his Freshman year. During this basketball season, Spencer has seen much action, playing center and sometimes as a guard. He is only a Sophomore, and has two more years of basketball, and a great future, ahead of him.

P. P. P. Must Win Tonight To Be In The Running

In order to remain in the running for the second half pennant, the Paterson Parchment Paper Company basketball five must defeat St. Ann's Aces tonight when the two clubs clash on Italian Mutual Aid court. The wind-up of the evening will see the two occupants of the cellar, the Knights and Hawks battle to vacate last place position.

The Paper Makers have won three games and lost one. Third Ward in first place is undefeated with two games remaining to be played. One of these frays is with the Paterson team and a defeat for Parell's boys tonight will mean that the second half is clinched by the Third Ward boys.

Manager Fields of the "Saints" feels confident that his boys will eliminate the Paper Mill lads from the playoff and states that if his club plays the same brand of ball they exhibited against the Frankford Alumni when they were victorious in a tournament match it will be pretty bad for the Parchment Company.

"Hun" Rodgers, "Spade" Spadaacino, "Porky" Earl, Frank Frankovic, and "Vin" Sawicki will be the starting line-up for the second half with Dorsey, Pico, Rich, Talio, and Britton starting for St. Ann's.

The wind-up of the evening will be an interesting match. The Hawks finished in the cellar last half and are battling to remain out of this position for this section.

The tap-off will begin at eight.

Bristol High and Alumni Game Has Been Postponed

(By Oscar Corn)

Owing to the fact that the Bristol High quintet has won the Lower Bucks County championship they have been entered in the State championship tournament, and the first game is to be played on March 10th, at Abington High, a neutral floor, with the winner of the Montgomery County League, Pennsbury or Lower Moreland.

Therefore, as the Bristol-Alumni basketball game is scheduled for this date, it will have to be postponed until further notice.

Mrs. Harold Sommerfield, Williamsport, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Kline, 1221 Pond street, from Saturday until Monday.

SPORT SHOTS by Maxwell Gordon

HUNTERS of small game in Bristol, Bensalem and Middletown townships are assured of pheasant and rabbits to shoot at any time, next fall. . . . The Bristol Fish and Game Association released several crates of rabbits and 35 ring neck pheasants in the three townships within the last few weeks. . . . while the State has liberated 30 pheasants and 96 rabbits through their deputy game wardens recently in this same territory.

Frank Richardson, Joseph Stackhouse and party, have killed four gray foxes in the township recently. . . . the men report that these foxes have been killing pheasants and rabbits at a great rate. . . . Hawks, too, are responsible for the slaughter of game around these parts. . . . particularly the "Cooper's" Hawk, a vicious bird that has caused the farmer much worry. . . . A number of these birds have been reported killed lately.

In the hand and Caldwell was wounded in the head.

Only fate—and the quick work of a woman—saved the President-elect from one of the slugs.

Calm through the wild excitement which shook the crowd, the President-elect waved his hand to indicate he was unharmed. He later issued a brief message which was broadcast over the nation assuring the people he had not been injured.

The would-be assassin felt the crowd's wrath immediately. He was seized by nearby spectators, pummeled savagely and suffered considerable damage before police and Secret Service agents forced their way to the spot and took him into custody.

"I kill every President," he said as he was hustled away. "I kill 'em all. I kill all officers."

Miami was in gala mood for the return of the President-elect from his cruise aboard the "Nourmahal," Vincent Astor's yacht.

About 15,000 people were jammed into the open air auditorium in Bay Front Park.

In an open automobile, the President-elect accompanied by Mayor R. B. Gautier and Safety Director S. D. McCreary, with Secret Service Agent James Reidy in the front seat, drove slowly up the waterfront to the Park.

The car came to a halt before a stand. A microphone was handed into Mr. Roosevelt's car and he stood to speak.

His remarks were brief. As he concluded, Cermak left the stand and came to the side of the car to greet the President-elect.

It was then Zanagara, standing about fifteen feet from the President-elect, drew a gun and blazed away.

Mrs. F. A. Cross, of Miami, was standing next to the assailant.

As his gun roared, she grabbed his wrist and forced the weapon upward. Four shots went over the heads of those seated in the first two rows before the stand. The quick action of Mrs. Cross undoubtedly saved Mr. Roosevelt from the leaden hail.

The second shot from Zanagara's gun struck Cermak in the back. L. L. Lee, city manager of Miami, standing beside him, clutched one arm and W. Wood, holding the microphone into which the President-elect spoke, grabbed the other.

Mr. Roosevelt reached down and helped the wounded Chicago mayor into the car. With siren screaming it raced for the hospital. The President-elect sat cradling Cermak's head in his lap and felt his pulse from time to time.

The sudden savage outburst threw the crowd into pandemonium.

Mrs. Gill, sitting in the stand, collapsed with a bullet in the abdomen. Sinnott, the detective, was standing behind the Roosevelt automobile and suffered a wound over the left eye. Miss Krutze standing in front of the stand, was shot in the hand and Caldwell, also in the front rank of those pressed close to the stand, suffered a head wound.

While Zanagara's gun was still smoking, those standing close to him fell upon him and pummeled him savagely.

Cries of "Kill him," "Lynch him," broke from the crowd as it surged toward the spot.

A Miami policeman forced his way to the would-be assassin's side and clubbed him.

Secret service men and police grabbed Zanagara from a group of infuriated spectators and threw him on the trunk rack of another automobile containing Vincent Astor and Kermit Roosevelt, who had accompanied the President-elect on the cruise.

The President-elect, who remained calm through the incident, waited at the hospital to learn Cermak's condition. When informed the mayor's wound was serious, he cancelled plans to leave for the North and returned to the Astor yacht to spend the night.

At the county jail, where Zanagara was hustled under the drawn guns of police, the President-elect's assailant, a short, sullen-looking person with bushy hair, told police he tried to kill Mr. Roosevelt because of "constant torment" following a stomach operation.

Sheriff Daniel Hardie, of Miami County, conducted the questioning.

Speaking in Italian through an interpreter, Zanagara told police he had purchased a gun ten years ago to kill King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

"I have always hated the rich and powerful," he said. "When I read in a

Miami newspaper two days ago the President-elect was coming to Miami by boat I determined to kill him. I hoped I would have better luck than I had ten years ago when, in Italy, I bought a pistol to kill King Emanuel.

"By a queer trick of fate the same thing that felled me at that time was the same thing that prevented me tonight from killing Mr. Roosevelt—there was too dense a crowd around and I couldn't shoot properly."

"I got to the Park early so as to be as close to the stand as possible. I sat there waiting and my stomach kept aching me more than ever. I kept thinking that if the crowd didn't get too thick around me I wouldn't fall like I did ten years ago.

"Finally, some of the people got tired of standing and my big chance came. When they sat down I stood up on a bench and pointed the gun at Mr.

Roosevelt.

"Somebody was pushing against the bench and made it wobbly. The gun was shaking in my hand but I pulled the trigger anyhow. I don't remember how many times.

"I don't know whether I shot Mr. Roosevelt or not but I want to make it clear I do not hate him personally. I hate all presidents, no matter where they come from, just like I hate all officials and everybody who is rich."

Zanagara, who is 33, told police he was born in Calabria, Italy. He worked in a brick factory in Italy, he said, and was burned in a fire there. As proof, he exhibited a large scar on his body.
